AFFIRMS JUDGMENT FOR CENT.

Appellate Court Sustains Findings in Celia Chambers Suit Against D. C.

The District Court of Appeals has declared that Celia Chambers may retain the judgment for one cent damage awarded to ner against the District of Columbia by a jury in the District Supreme Court.

Justice Van Orsdel rendered the opinion affirming the lower court and declaring that the fury was justified in finding there had been no substantial injury to the plaintiff.

The plaintiff fell over an elevation in a sidewalk. The verificit carries costs, it is said, against the District of Columbia.
